From on-campus, students and faculty can access Material ConneXion’s online library at https://www.materialconnexion.online/database.

Users who do not wish to create a personal account may begin browsing immediately. However, creating a personal account will allow the user to save materials to “Material Boards” which will make it easy to return to saved materials for continued research, and to share their findings with professors or peers. To create a personal account:

Click on “Member Log In” at the top right of the screen. This will open a pop-up window.
Returning users should enter their username and password, then click “Submit”.

New users should follow the on-screen instructions (“To create a personal account, click here.”) This will open a registration page.

Complete the form in its entirety, then click “Submit”. Upon submission, a confirmation message will appear:
Users will receive a confirmation email detailing their login information. You will need to confirm your email before you will be able to log into the database.

If you do not receive the email, please check your “spam” folder before contacting support@materialconnexion.com for additional support.

Once you have received your confirmation email, click “Confirm Account” to complete the registration process. This will bring you to your Account page:

From here, you may click on:

- Materials Database – to browse or search the full database
- Database Tutorial – to watch a brief video about how to best leverage the database
- Our Categories – for a series of short videos designed to explain our categories
- Materials Review – to watch videos of our team discussing various types of materials

If you encounter any trouble navigating the database or creating a personal account, please email support@materialconnexion.com, and we will be happy to help you!
